Launch of Creative Generation project video archive - web - blog

Big Bang Lab in collaboration with High Trees Community Trust invites you to the launch of a new resource for our communities, a video collection of interviews made together between older people and young local residents in St Martin's Estate and local neighbourhoods, giving an opportunity to enquire and deal with relevant issues of concern and an opportunity to travel to the past or to the future to find together new solutions. Creative Generation project provided an unique shared learning exchanges and an open platform for discussions using audio and video to record the conversations and interviews for the community and future generations.
